

WANT FOUNTAIN ON THE SQUARE

MERCHANTS BELIEVE THAT PUBLIC DRINKING TROUGH SHOULD BE PLACED AT THE SOUTHEAST CORNER OF THE COURT HOUSE.

MAY CIRCULATE PETITION

Since the "squabble" between the councilmen regarding the location of the public watering trough, at the council meeting on Tuesday night, there has been much discussion among the Greencastle business men regarding the locating of the trough.

The general impression among the business men is that the watering trough should be placed on the square and not on a side street. The farmers and others who want to water their horses, would not like to drive two or three blocks out of their way to reach a trough, as would be necessary if it were placed off of the square.

Most of the downtown merchants believe that the trough should be placed at the southeast corner of the courthouse square. It would be easily accessible to all those who desired water for their horses.
There is talk of circulating a petition and presenting it to the council at the next meeting, asking that the trough be placed on the court house corner. Should the council decide to place the fountain there it is hoped that the mayor will abide by the desire of the council and not issue an order that it should not be placed there.

VETERANS ENTERTAINED DURING CONFERENCE

The Terre Haute Tribune tells of "Methodism and Militarism" in a recent issue, as follows:

"Methodism and militarism com-mingled harmoniously during the Methodist conference here last week.
The occasion was a dinner given by W. B. Rippetoe at his home, 516 Hancock street, Saturday night. The guests were a number of clerical delegates to the conference, all of whom were comrades of Mr. Rippetoe in the civil war. Camp fires were relighted and many long-forgotten thrilling incidents were recalled in the reminiscent stories that followed the little banquet.

"Among the guests were Rev. and Mrs. W. P. McKinsey, Rev. and Mrs.
W. H. Hickman, and Revs. W. H.
Fertich, David Handley, H. A. Gobin, William A. Smith, Horatio N. Ogden and N. A. Chamberlain.

During the armed engagement between the north and the south the Rev. McKinsey was first lieutenant of the 10th Indiana volunteers; W.

H. Hickman was a private in Company G, 10th Indiana, then second corporal of Company D, 55th Indiana and finally a private in Company K, 39th Indiana cavalry. N. A.
Chamberlain served as surgeon in the 13th Indiana Infantry; David Handley was a private in the mounted infantry, Company G., 72d regiment; W. A. Smith, private and second sergeant, and later chaplain of the 79th Illinois. W. H. Fertich was sergeant in Company G, 9th Indiana cavalry; H. A. Gobin was second corporal, Company B, 71st Indiana, and afterwards in the 6th Indiana cavalry; Horatio N. Ogden was a musician in Company B, 35th Indiana Infantry, and W. B. Rippetoe was first lieutenant, Lilly's 18th Indiana battery.

MUST HAVE MORE TRACK AT LADOGA

MONON LONG FREIGHT TRAINS CANNOT BE ACCOMMODATED AT PRESENT—SHOULD BE EX-TENDED BEYOND HIGH GRADE
NORTH OF TOWN.

TO INSTALL BLOCK SYSTEM

When the Monon built the present passing track at Ladoga it was thought it would be sufficient for many years, but it is now proving inadequate and will probably have to be extended to at least twice its present length. The freight traffic over the road has grown to such an extent that trains of seventy to eighty cars or even more are not uncommon and a train of about thirty-five cars is about all that can be accommodated in the present track.

This, the middle section of the road, is an important passing point.
Railroadmen say that the passing track should be extended at least to beyond the high grade north of town.

Many of the heavy freights have great trouble in getting over that grade when they have to stop for the Central Indiana crossing at Ladoga. When the new block system is installed, as the law requires, the trains will not have to make the stop and it will be easier to get over the grade.

The bridge across Raccoon Creek at the south edge of town will have to be strengthened, it is said, on account of the heavy engines. The passenger trains slow down to cross the bridge.

AN AUTO STRUCK MRS. KESTERSON

RESIDENT OF GREENCASTLE
THE VICTIM OF AN AUTOMO-BILE ACCIDENT AT LINDEN ON TUESDAY.

HER INJURIES ARE SERIOUS

LINDEN, Oct. 11.—Yesterday evening while Mrs. Kesterson of Greencastle, was walking along the road a mile and a half south of here with her daughter, Mrs. Barr Andrews, whom she is visiting, when she was struck by an automobile owned by Fielding Morin and was knocked to the roadside and both bones in one of her legs were broken just above the ankle and she was otherwise bruised. The worst injury aside from the broken leg was a bad scalp wound. Owing to her age, she is past sixty, the accident may prove serious, although Dr. J. W. Elliott states that he thinks there are no internal injuries. Mrs. Kesterson was with her daughter and they had started to walk to the latter's home after they had spent the afternoon with Mrs.
James Shumaker.

Mr. Morin came up behind them in his machine and it is thought the old lady became confused and stepped directly in front of the auto. It was almost dark and for this reason it is thought Mrs. Kesterson did not see or hear the automobile until it was close behind her and became excited and stepped in the way instead of out of it. But she says this is not true and insists that she can not account for her actions. "I saw and heard the auto but for the life of me I can't tell why I stepped in front of it." The driver of the machine not expecting any move on her part was unable to avoid the mishap.

Mrs. Kesterson was not directly in front of the machine or the result would probably have been fatal, as the auto was going rapidly. In his effort to miss her Mr. Morin almost succeeded and she was struck on the hip by the fender and was knocked to one side of the road so that the auto did not run over her after she was hurled to the ground. The driver stopped as soon as possible and the injured woman was taken to the home of her daughter, which was not far, in the machine. Dr. Elliott was hastily summoned and gave her medical attention. She rested as well as could be expected during the night and the indications are now that she will recover. No blame attaches to Mr. Morin.

Last Ball Game of Season.

Bainbridge and Ladoga will meet in the last baseball game of the season at Bainbridge, Friday, October 13. Each team have secured a number of professional players to play with and a good contest is expected.

Work at grading Indiana street began again this afternoon. The steam roller was used to pull the road grader, which is being used to level off the street. With the weather as it is for a few days, much progress can be made on the square improvement work.

Mr. Downey, who is superintending the improvement work on the public square, informs us that the main effort from now on will be to prepare the road bed and spread thereon the broken stone, to the end that the streets be made passable this winter. The weather from now on, under the ordinary circumstances, will not be sufficiently warm and settled to admit of putting on the "binder course" before next spring.

Rev. E. G. Shouse, pastor of the Baptist church, will preach at the church Sunday morning. The sermon will be especially for the old people of the city.

A WONDERFUL STORY "PIED PIPER" AT THE LYRIC TO-NIGHT.

A "STUCCO" FINISH FOR THIS CUSTOMER.

A local clothing merchant has received the following clever communication from one of his out-of-township customers:

"I have suddenly discovered that my trousseau has gone Democratic.
As I advised you my best pants got mixed up with the folding bed.
Shortly thereafter I used my next best pair to help stretch a string of barbed wire at the farm, as the stretchers they were using wouldn't pull hard enough; also got out my last winter's regalia a few days since to attend a function and found all the moth in this township had been turned into pasture. I calked the holes with some XXX gum and managed to get through the festivities, but can't hold out much longer. You spoke of some swell New York creations, and that sounds about the proper mixture for a swell gent like your Uncle Dudley. Have in mind something on the iron-gray order, or otherwise, stucco finish.
Maybe you'd better send me out a suit or two for inspection if you think you have the right stuff in; or possibly I may be able to run down Saturday, if the weather is O.
K."

IS IT LUCK OR REVENGE

A DRUNKEN MAN RUNS A MUCK.
GETS KILLED AND THE MAN WHO FIRED FATAL SHOT IS ACQUITTED.

THEN FIRE AND FAILURE

The Mail, published at Bedford, tells a tale of blood and fire that would furnish foundation for a drama, as follows:

"A voluntary bankruptcy petition entered by Mrs. Mary Rock in the Federal Court, who runs a store at Oolitic, is another chapter in the story of the ill fortunes that have persistently followed the family for many years. Since the day that Philip Rock was murdered on the Oolitic road, the business cares of the store have proven too much for Mrs. Rock and her son, Tony, and the petition in the Federal Court is the result. Mrs. Rock places her liabilities at $3,663.22 and her assets $600 which she holds exempted under the bankruptcy law.

"The family's misfortunes seem to have begun with a fight at the Rock store at Oolitic in 1894, when Philip Rock shot and killed Louis Lotito, a quarryman. Lotito had been drinking and was thrown out of the Rock store. He returned and was hurled rocks through the windows, when Rock killed him. Rock was tried for murder and was acquitted.

"A short time after this the Rock store was burned to the ground and the members of the family had a narrow escape from being burned to death in the flames. Rock again went into business, purchasing the Vorlis building, but was again burned out.

"The Italian merchant then moved to Sanders, Monroe county, and again embarked in business. He had hardly started on his business career when a torch was applied and both building and stock were destroyed.
He moved back to Oolitic and was again burned out.

"Finally he erected a stone fireproof building where he was conducting business when he was shot from ambush near the Salt Creek bridge.

"The Rocks became involved in a factional fight following the killing of Philip Rock, which involved the filing of charges and counter charges. Much money was spent in these fights in court, and the filing of charges and counter charges in court and the filing of the petition in bankruptcy is no surprise to the many who have followed the affairs of the Rocks closely."

GIRL A WARD OF JUVENILE COURT

OPAL EGGERS, 14-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS.
GRANVILLE EGGERS OF CAR-PENTERSVILLE, WHO RAN AWAY WITH MARRIED MAN, BEFORE JUDGE HUGHES.

GIVEN CHANCE TO REFORM

Opal Eggers, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Bohannon, a married man, but who later returned to her home, was before Judge Hughes, sitting as judge in the Juvenile Court Thursday morning, and was made a ward of the court.

The girl, after her return, showed no remorse, and told the officers several false stories regarding her runaway experience. Among them was that she and Bohannon had been married in Louisville. This she later admitted was false.

Jasper Dalby, Juvenile officer, went to Carpentersville, Wednesday evening and Thursday morning brought the girl and her father to Greencastle. Judge Hughes probably would have sent the girl to the Reform School, had it not been for the pleading of several officers and friends of the Eggers family, who stated that the girl was ignorant, and should be given an opportunity to reform. Judges Hughes agreed to this and the girl was made a ward of the court. Her future depends entirely upon her behavior. She told the court that she would behave herself hereafter.

There are no new developments in the hunt for Bohannon. The officers are still working for his arrest and it is believed that it is only a matter of time. When he is apprehended he probably will be severely dealt with by the courts.

ADDITIONS TO DEPAUW UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

The large library left by Miss Minnetta Taylor, deceased, has been given to DePauw University, and is to be known as the Minnetta Taylor Memorial Library.

A second gift to the DePauw University Library is made by Guy Morrison Walker, of New York City, a graduate of the class of 1890. The books given by Mr. Walker number more than a thousand volumes, some of which are quite rare. The collection includes a copious library on the subject of missions, as well as many works of value in the departments of Latin and Greek.

"Hobo" Took Big Chance.

Just as the interurban car east bound left Greencastle station, on Wednesday night at 9:19 o'clock, bystanders discovered a hobo lying on the air brakes, quite close to the generator. Effort was made to notify Conductor Sutton and Motorman Hawkins, but without avail and then the train dispatcher was informed of the situation. His efforts to catch the car were of no avail until it had reached Plainfield, and before the crew were notified at that town, and search instituted, the hobo had given up his reserved berth beneath the car.

Needless to say that this hobo took a long chance in securing transportation; he was in position to get a full charge of "electric juice" if accident had happened en route.

Old and Valuable Relics Shown.

At the birthday dinner of Mrs. L.
D. Sechman last week were displayed some old curious things well worth mentioning. The first was a mustard cup 100 years old; two silver half dollars, 105 years old; an embroidered panel of old Roman letters, made in 1795, in perfect preservation; a quilt block pieced by her grandmother Quinlan at the age of 101 years. Mrs. Quinlan was a native of Maryland. Two silver tea spoons made from grandfather James Quinlan's silver knee buckles and worn during Revolutionary war times; a brass candle stick over one hundred years old; two rings given to Mrs. Sechman and sister when they were young, by their father, also the grandmother's wedding ring with the inscription still perfect.

Mrs. Sechman displayed one breadth of her grandmother Sinclair's wedding dress, hand embroidered in a beautiful pattern.

"Mr. Sechman has a wooden spoon carved out of white holly wood and the knife that carved it. This was made by a comrade during the civil war while they were in prison at Ft.
Lyster."—Coatesville Herald.

Fair tonight; slightly warmer in ship, is reported quite ill.

The Machine Skidded.

The Coatesville Herald tells of an automobile experience as follows:

"Folks about town are having considerable sport at the expense of Joe Sechman because of his manner of alighting from an auto. Most folks use the side of the car for getting in and out. Joe went straight ahead and didn't even let the wind shield interfere with the manner of his going.
Result, Joe has a badly damaged pobosis, right optic and cheek. How it happened was this way: Joe, in company with his wife and child, Sylvester Ellett and daughter and Pres Buis, the latter handling the steering gear, were entering Danville last Thursday evening at a rapid gait. In turning a corner the machine skidded, ran into a tree and threw Joe through the wind-shield.
The rest of the party escaped with slight injuries, but the auto was badly damaged and had to be left in Danville for repairs."

What of the Weather?

The weather prediction made by weather experts for October, 1911, tells of cold and snow.

A reactionary storm period falls on the 13th, 14th and 15th. Fierce autumnal thunder storms will visit many sections, with high gales over lake regions. High barometer, snow squalls and change to much colder as the culmination of these storms.

A regular storm period, covered by the autumnal and mercury periods, extends from the 17th to the 22nd. Fierce autumnal storms, with lightning and thunder during the first stages, will mark this period.
Autumn rains will occur generally at this time, attended by dangerous gales. Another very decided period reaches from the 18th to the 24th, central on the 21st. High northwest winds and cooler, fair weather will follow this period.

A reactionary storm period will bring in storm changes—low barometer, cloudiness and autumnal rain.
Stubborn cloudiness, persistent tendency to drizzle and sleet, snow and cold, will attend and follow these dates.

A regular storm period is central on the 30th, and extends from the 28th of October to the 3rd of November. The moon will end with weather growing warmer.

D'PAUW-WABASH GRIDIRON GAME

THE CRAWFORDSVILLIANS ARE SHAPING THEMSELVES TO WIN VICTORY OR GO DOWN TO DE-FEAT GRACEFULLY.

WHAT ABOUT THE RESULT?

The Crawfordsville Journal of Oct.
11, says of tomorrow's football game:

The Wabash College football team was put through some fast practice in anticipation of a hard game on Friday when the Methodists will come for the annual game. Coach Harper is mightily pleased with the way his men are rounding into form after the game with Purdue. Eglin, Lambert and Elliott are home from Indianapolis where they went to take treatment for their bruises.
Big Fritz Ebert has recovered and is in readiness to go in again if called upon, while "Sis" Hopkins, who to all appearances was the worst injured man on the squad, being badly disfigured about the face, has not missed a practice.

Stiff scrimmage practice was on the program for this afternoon but on Thursday, punting, drop and place kicking, running through the signals and light work only will be indulged in.

The visitors will arrive in this city Friday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock three hundred strong and will be accompanied by a band. The local rooters will also have a band and there promises to be plenty of music besides the rooting, which will be a feature of the game.

The officials for Friday's game will be Eckersall, of Chicago, referee; Hackett, of West Point, umpire; Waugh, of Indiana, head linesman; McGaughey, of Indiana, field judge.

Pumped Out Oyster Shell.

At Ladoga, while eating oyster soup, Ollie Pennington accidentally swallowed a piece of shell. It lodged in his throat and gave him much pain on account of the sharp jagged edges. He writhed in agony until Dr.
W. F. Batman arrived and applied the stomach pump. After considerable trouble he dislodged the shell.
The piece of shell was oblong in shape and in size was larger than a quarter but not quite as big as half a dollar. It was dislodged with much force and the rough edges lacerated Pennington's throat so that it bled profusely.

Women as Financiers

THE NEW department of Home Economics of the University of Wisconsin is responsible for the assertion that women of this country spend nine billion dollars of the ten billion annually paid out for clothing, rent and food.

These figures make us realize that practically all of the money that is spent, except when men spend on their wives and their outside clothes, is disbursed by women. It is the wife who deals directly with the butcher, and baker, and grocer; who buys the clothes of the family and the household furnishings; who generally decides what papers and magazines shall be taken; what theaters shall be attended; what amusements shall be indulged in, where the children shall be educated.

This fact is so well known that every merchant's wares are arranged to catch a woman's eye, every advertisement in a newspaper is framed to pique her curiosity. Plays are successes or failures as they please women or not. Even whether a book is a sixth best seller or unread depends on whether or not it hits the feminine fancy.

Of course every man knows that a woman is the purchasing committee and the head of the consumer department in his own family, and that most of the money that he earns passes through her hands. It is, however, rather staggering when the sum total of what other men's wives also spend is announced, and it calls attention to what is the most curious phase in man's inconsistent attitude toward woman.

That is the money question. Here are the women of the country actually handling nine billions of dollars annually, spending it wisely or foolishly, making or marring fortunes, bankrupting their husbands or pushing them on to riches, and yet nobody thinks it worth while to train women in finance, or even to give them the most elementary knowledge of business methods.

Of the women who help disburse that vast sum of money the great majority could not keep a bank account straight; they do not know the debit from the credit side of a ledger; they could not draw a check; they do not know the difference between a gold bond and a share of Wild Cat preferred mining stock.

Yet such women if she is the wife of even a well-to-do man, handles thousands of dollars every year, and she has made a will leaving her all his property when he dies. But he doesn't instruct her in any of the details of finance. Neither did her father think it proper to educate her for the career of purchasing agent which he knew she was bound to assume.

Because men do not teach their wives and daughters anything about business is the reason that women who inherit money nearly always lose it. They are absolutely at the mercy of their trustees.

Another disadvantage that women labor under in money matters is that although the average woman spends a lot of money, she very seldom knows what she has to go upon, or even sees the money. It is only the exceptionally fortunate woman whose husband makes her an allowance, and who, having a definite amount at her command, can make her plans so as to get the most of it.

The great majority of women buy on bills which their husbands pay with more or less grumbling. The wife comes to expect this as a matter of course, and so goes blundering along, not knowing really what she can afford, and what she cannot, and whether her husband's protests against her expenditures are the result of lack of money or krouchiness.

Any man would perceive that he could not do business intelligently, nor thriftily, without knowing the extent of his income, but he expects his wife to manage economically when she is in the dark about the amount of capital upon which she is running the family.

As a matter of fact, women do not get such bad results out of their spending. They are clever enough on bargain hunts, but they do not do half as well as they would if they had been given a proper business training and were given a fair and rational treatment in money matters.

Heaven alone knows why, but most men would rather have their eye teeth pulled than to give a woman actual money in her hand. They seem to think that they can keep a check on their wives by having them charge things on an account. Never was there a greater mistake. Bills are the open door to extravagance, because they do not visualize the swift flight of money to a woman. She has to see the wad in her pocketbook melting like ice in the sun to make her get a death grip on it.

Considering that almost every woman has the spending of the earnings of some man, and that this in the aggregate amounts to nine billion dollars a year, it does look as if the subject were entitled to more than the casual consideration that has been given to it, and that it would be at least worth while to give a girl the same instructions in business methods that is given a boy.

Perhaps, though, when a man looks at the number of things his wife can buy with five dollars and what he can get with the same amount of money he lacks the nerve to try to teach her anything about the mysteries of high finance.

For it is a fact that a woman can present a fashionable appearance, make presents to her family, have money in the savings bank, and take trips to Europe on an income on which a man would be perpetually in debt and wear fringe on his trousers.

This Girl Can Vote But Doesn't Care to

BARONESS CLIFTON.

The little Baroness Clifton has the right to vote in England.

While British women are fighting for suffrage, there is one little lady in England who has the right to vote whenever she pleases, and she didn't have to fight for this right.

This fortunate lady is eleven-year-old Baroness Clifton. Under the law she has the right to be summoned to all councils and state ceremonies of the sovereign. Her title is among the oldest in the house of lords. She can vote on any important question at issue and no one can deny her right.

But the little Baroness seems to care more for her dolls just at present than she does about the yearly budget or what the king is doing. She attended the coronation and a little coronet was prepared for her.

Boiled Dinner

It is difficult to have a boiled dinner for two, as one does not care for it the second time, so here is a remedy: One small head of cabbage, two white turnips, three or four potatoes, two one and one-half inch thick pork chops, and two slices of bacon. Cut the cabbage so as to retain its shape and still be able to put inside of it the chops. Next, put the bacon between the two chops and tie together with white twine. After the cabbage has boiled about twenty minutes, add the chops. When a little tender, add the potatoes and turnips. Any left over cabbage is good fried with potatoes. German style.

Vassar Fudge

Add to two cups white granulated, or soft brown sugar, one cupful thick cream. Put this over the fire, and when it gets hot add a quarter cake chocolate, grated or broken in fine pieces. Stir constantly and vigorously. When it reaches the boiling point add a tablespoonful butter, and keep stirring until a little poured on a saucer creams with beating. Take from the fire, beat until cool and pour in buttered tins.

Layer Date Cake

One-half cup butter, two cups sugar, four eggs, one cup cold water, three cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-third teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla. Filling: One-half cup sugar, add a little water, and boil until it hairs. Pour this on white of two eggs. Beat very brisk. Take one pound dates, seed, and chop. Add two tablespoons sugar and one-third cup water. Boil until as thick as paste. Mix paste frosting; beat well; spread between the layers and on top.

Bread Hint

Cut slice one inch thick from a round shaped loaf of bread, then remove the center of each slice with a cookie cutter. Toast the larger circles a delicate brown and fill with hot creamed chickens or veal. The smaller rounds of bread may be made into delicious sandwiches and served with the meat course as described.

Date Loaf

One and one-half cups of brown sugar, one-half cup of butter, one cup of sour milk, three eggs well beaten, two cups of flour, one teaspoonful of soda in milk, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one cup of stoned and chopped dates, one cup of walnuts. Bake slowly.

A Garden Hint.

To keep the bugs and insects which infest your trees from killing the blossoms or leaves, wrap a piece of cotton around the center of the body and cover the cotton with a piece of fly paper. This is invaluable. Try it. Use sticky side out.

To Rid House of Flies

Close windows and boil a pint of water, to which has been added ten drops of carbolic acid, vigorously for five minutes. Then raise windows and the flies that are not dead will fly out.

Are Blondes Losing their Fascination for Men?

SOME TIME AGO a theatrical man whose business it is to organize choruses for musical comedies and who is therefore supposed to have his finger on the pulsebeats of the masculine heart, announced that there was a marked decline in the demand for blondes and that the market for brunettes was steadily bullish. He even went so far as to say that the day of the blondes was past.

History—ancient, medieval and modern, criminal and social—is against him. Helen's blonde head battered down the walls of Troy. Europe's greatest king bowed in implicit obedience to the nod of the towering mass of blonde hair above the brow of La Pompadour. And today, down in Virginia, a little blonde girl of no education and less than doubtful character has wrecked the happiness of three homes, placed a man's life in jeopardy and brought on a criminal trial that has thrown a great state into turmoil.

In practically all of New York's causes celebres in recent years, both in the divorce and criminal courts, the heroine has been a blonde. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is the single notable exception.

The most recent case of a blonde stirring up a sensation in New York is that of Lillian Graham, who is now under bond awaiting trial for the alleged attempted killing of W. E. D. Stokes, the enormously wealthy hotel man.

The Graham girl who is young enough to be his daughter, fascinated Stokes a long time before the latter's marriage. It has never been denied that he was intimate terms with her and wrote her many letters. It is around these letters that the story of the shooting, as told by both sides, is built. Stokes had married another young woman, and he says that the Graham girl wrote and asked him to come to the flat where she lived with Ethel Conrad. She then demanded $25,000 for the return of the letters, he says, and both threatened him with revolvers, which they used when he attempted to leave the apartment. The girls say that he came and tried to get the letters by force and they shot at his legs in self defense. None of the wounds was serious and the case will be aired in court within a few months.

The case of Nan Patterson, another blonde, is one of the most famous in the criminal annals of New York. She had many admirers and among them Caesar Young, who left his wife to worship the pretty chorus girl. Apparently he was conscience stricken at last and was about to leave her and go to Europe when he was shot in a cab on his way to the pier. Nan Patterson was with him at the time. She maintained that he had killed himself in a struggle for the possession of the pistol with which she threatened to end her own life if he deserted her. She was tried three times without a conviction and at last released.

With her final release her popularity died. The long siege she had been through ruined her beauty and she dropped rapidly into obscurity.

Equally famous was the story of Florence Burns, who was charged with the murder of Walter Brooks in the Glen Island hotel. She was with him in a room there and he was found dead from a pistol shot after she left. No revolver was ever found and this was the strongest fact in her defense. In the hearing before the committing magistrate she was discharged and the grand jury never returned an indictment. After her release she went from bad to worse and is now in jail charged with working a blackmailing game.

A blonde was the heroine of the most entertaining divorce trial of recent years. She is Mrs. Edith V. Gambler, "the kissless bride," who, too, fascinated a man old enough to be her father. Gambler is cashier of a big bank and his young wife brought divorce proceedings on the ground that he had never even kissed her or in any way made her his wife. He replied that she had never given him the opportunity and made counter charges of a grave nature which seemed to show that Mrs. Gambler's beauty was appreciated by other men. He successfully defended the suit.

Mrs. Roberta Menges Corwin Hill, once known as "The Queen of Coney Island," is a much married charmer with golden hair. It was while she was known as the "Queen of Coney Island" that she met and captivated young Halsey Corwin, who suddenly married her. They were not happy together and were divorced in a short time.

After this initial adventure into matrimony she met and married a Captain Hill of the English army. This affair did not last very long either. Miss Hill is now in Europe.

There is quite a feeling for fancy mixture tweeds in neutral but dark tones, melanges in heather gray, green and brown. These materials would classify as English mixtures. Thus far they have largely been used for traveling and so-called sporting costumes; that is, suits for country wear, golf, tennis, shooting, mountain climbing, etc. But all of the model makers have collections of these samples, and a good deal of confidence is expressed in them for the coming winter.

That there is concerted effort to ape English effects, following the coronation and other interesting public and social functions in London, is unquestionable. Simple, mannish looking suits of Scotch and English mixtures are most typically British; therefore, one may expect a renewed interest in these materials.

FROZEN PEACHES.—To freeze take one pint of prepared peach pulp and stir into it four drops of almond extract and a chilled syrup made by boiling together for five minutes one pint of sugar and one pint of water. To give it a pretty tint use a very little fruit red color paste.

A wonderful fruit has been found in the neighborhood of the coast of the Gulf of Guinea, in Africa. It has the power, says a report, to "change the flavor of the most acid substance into a delicious sweetness." An official has found it effective after a dose of quinine and adds that "if a lemon be sucked within two or three hours of eating one of the fruits its acid flavor is entirely counteracted." The fruit resembles a small plum, with the seed invested in a thin, soft pulp, wherein lies the peculiar sweetening property.

A Strange Movement. Mrs. Charles A. Babcock, of Orwell, N. Y., has had a monument erected in the cemetery at Orwell, over the grave of her late husband, who was always engaged in the lumber business. It is a saw mill made of marble and granite and is an exact reproduction of their Redfield mill, made on a scale of one inch to the foot. It is complete in every detail, having saws, carriages, rollers to carry off the sawed lumber, skids with three legs on ready to roll on the carriage, car loaded with lumber, the whole being cut out of marble. It has the appearance of a mill just shut down.

Sponge Diving in Greek Islands. In many of the Greek islands diving for sponges forms a considerable part of the occupation of the inhabitants. The natives make it a trade to gather these, and their income from this source is good. In one of the islands a girl is not permitted to marry until she has brought up a certain number of sponges and given proof of her skill by taking them from a certain depth. But in some of the islands this custom is reversed. The father of a marriageable daughter bestows her on the best diver among her suitors. He who can stay longest in the water and bring up the biggest cargo of sponges marries the maid.

Prohibiting Dyed Goods. Some time ago the Amoor of Afghanistan forbade the import into his country of carpets colored with aniline dyes. The Kashmir of Durbur has now decided to charge the high duty of 45 per cent on all aniline dyes at the frontier, and at a certain distance within the frontier to confiscate and at once destroy them. By this measure it is hoped the beautiful arts for which the Vale of Kashmir is famous will be preserved from deterioration.

Customs in Other Countries. Many Japanese women gild their teeth. Women of Arabia stain their fingers and toes red. In Greenland women paint their faces blue and yellow. In India the women of high castes paint their teeth black. A Hindoo bride is anointed from head to foot with grease and saffron. Borneo women dye their hair in fantastic colors—pink, green, blue and scarlet. In New Holland scars, made carefully with shells, form elaborate patterns on the women's faces. In some South American tribes the women draw the front teeth, estimating as an ornament the black gap thus made.

New Volcanic Island. Officers of the revenue cutter service were able to explore the new volcanic island in the Bogosof group of the Indian sea, although it was still very hot from the action of the volcano, which threw it up ten days prior to that. A great column of smoke and steam continued to rise over this new-born isle. At the northern end the land rises abruptly to 400 feet, and on the west to a height of 700 feet. Notwithstanding that the surface was still warm and soft, the explorers ascended to the summit.

Deafness and Other Senses. An ear specialist insists that deafness affects all the senses. He says the reason for this is that the ear is only one servant of the sensory service of the human system. Loss of hearing is really a partial paralysis of the brain, but owing to the sympathetic connection of the various sensory nerve centers of the brain, the others indirectly concerned have to combat for their very life the demoralizing influence of the affected center.

Animals' Love for Sea. A scientist has made some interesting observations as to the love of different wild animals for the sea. The polar bear, he says, is the only one that takes naturally to the sea, and is quite jolly when aboard ship. All others violently resent a trip on water. The tiger suffers most of all. Horses are very bad sailors, and often perish on a voyage. Elephants do not like the sea.

Chilean Nitrate Fields. The Chilean nitrate fields escaped earthquake damages in the recent shocks. The increased demand for nitrate of soda has been so great that a number of additional outside vessels have been chartered to get the product from Chile to the United States. The American imports of nitrates from Chile in 1905 amounted to 2,525 tons, valued at $9,305,577.

FARWELL URGES MONETARY REFORM

For Laborers, Merchants and Producers.

DEFENDS COUNTRY BANKS

Suggestions of the National Citizens' League for National Reserve Agency Are Set Forth and Explained.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11.—The feature of tonight's session of the Bankers' Association of Illinois was an address by John V. Farwell, president of the National Citizens' League for the Promotion of a Sound Banking System. His subject was "The Importance of Monetary Reform to Business Men," and he said in part:

"As business men deal both with banks and wage earners, they occupy a position from which they can or should see both sides of a banking question. They are convinced that under a sound system, extreme panics should not occur, and that some scheme can be devised so that business can proceed without the jars and breaks which ruin business houses and throw many innocent people out of employment."

"While we fully recognize that all must suffer together, it could be shown, I am sure, that such panics injure banks less than business men, and heads of business houses less than employees. It is, therefore, of greatest interest to the latter classes to study this subject of banking and currency, and to help bring about a correct solution of the difficult problem. It is for that reason that the National Citizens' League was formed, at the instance of the Association of Commerce of Chicago."

"While we do not refuse the co-operation of Bankers, we are especially interested in organizing the business men and men of all occupations, whether farmers, mechanics or daily laborers. It is their problem, and it is their opinion and their vote that will settle the question."

The League's Suggestions.

"We have no bill of our own, and will present none to Congress, but have suggested the following principles on which we believe a sound measure should be founded:

"1. Co-operation, not dominant centralization, of all banks by an evolution out of our clearing house experience."

"2. Protection of the credit system of the country from the domination of any group of financial or political interests."

"3. Independence of the individual banks, national or state, and uniform treatment in discounts and rates to all, large or small."

"4. Provision for making liquid the sound commercial paper of all the banks, either in the form of credits or bank notes redeemable in gold or lawful money."

"5. Elasticity of currency and credit in times of seasonal demands and stringencies with full protection against over expansion."

"6. Legalization of acceptance of time bills of exchange, in order to create a discount market at home and abroad."

"7. The organization of better banking facilities with other countries, to aid in the extension of our foreign trade."

"These objects should be carried out through some national co-operative agency, under government supervision, which would so dispose of cash reserves as make them available wherever needed, and also create confidence in our banking stability at home and abroad."

What the System Must Be.

"What are the troubles today? The panics of 1893 and 1907 showed every thoughtful business man that something was wrong with our monetary system. We would all agree, I think, in saying that we have many of the best banks and bankers in the world, but when, in panics, such banks have to refuse to perform their functions, and all seem near chaos, we must be equally ready to admit that we have the worst banking system in any civilized country. In fact, the trouble is we have no system which makes united action possible against the disintegrating forces of panic. At such times we are all aware that the tendency, instead of being toward union and common defense, is toward individual self-preservation, without regard for any one else."

"As a league we do not believe in a central bank doing a general banking business, like the Bank of England, but we do believe in what might be called a national reserve agency, controlled and managed so as to represent the democratic spirit and the sound common sense of this nation."

"By that, I mean that the majority of the directors of the agency in all its departments, should be elected by the banks as units without any reference to the amount of capital stock, and a minority only by votes according to capital stock. Other restrictions on the voting power of certain forms of chains of banks might also be considered under the same purpose in mind. Such arrangement would keep the agency free from possibility of control by any class or section of the country and make it a servant of all the banks. As this is a most important point any other better or more complete suggestions would be welcome. With headquarters in Washington, it would have 15 or more branches in the various sections of the country, and it would be owned by all the banks of the country, both state and national. It should not be organized to make money, but to render a public service. The stockholders would be limited in dividends to 5 or 6 per cent, and all further earnings, after 20 per cent. surplus had been accumulated, should go partly to the government and partly to surplus."

Functions of Reserve Agency. "To hold, without paying interest, all cash reserves of the subscribing banks—reserves which are of no daily use to a bank, because the law says they cannot be drawn upon.

"To hold all government deposits, and act as a fiscal agent of the government. It would accept no deposits from any individual, firm or corporation."

"Under some equitable agreement to take over and retire all national bank note issues and substitute its own notes therefor, based on the same bond and also on its other assets."

"It should not lend on bonds, but should give all subscribing banks the privilege of re-discounting, at same rate to all, any good commercial paper having not over 28 days to run, thus making liquid the good assets of any and all banks."

"It might also re-discount commercial paper having more than 28 days and not more than four months to run, provided it was guaranteed by a local institution, to one of which all banks in each district would belong. It could also do business in foreign exchange and in various forms of acceptances, as might be worked out in detail."

"Payments would be made to banks from their balance in cash or national reserve notes."

Check for the Dangers. "The danger of an over-expansion of credit and notes issued could be checked by a tax beginning when the ratio of reserve to be fixed by experts, and increasing as the ratio of reserve decreased until it arrived at a figure which would be so large as to be effective as a final check. The brakes would be put on so gradually that there would be no sudden jar, which would scare all the passengers and break few bones."

"This tax would not be on the notes themselves, but through the raising of the discount rate, would fall on the banks in proportion to the amounts re-discounted by each bank and charged weekly as long as reserve was below the required amount."

"The clearing house certificate plan, or its further development in the Aldrich-Vreeland act, would undoubtedly work well mechanically, as far as it could go, but psychologically it would surely prove a failure, because it calls the attention of every one to the fact that the regular system has broken down."

"The League will not favor a bill improperly safeguarded as to the control, and wishes additional concrete suggestions from any one which will absolutely prevent such an agency from getting into the hands of any section or class, and at the same time keep it clear of political influence."

Wouldn't Injure Smaller Banks. "As to the injury to the smaller banks, I fail to see how such a thing is possible. Now they go to their correspondents in the reserve cities for re-discounts. With a jointly owned agency to re-discount their paper they would have one more institution to go to, and that one organization in which they had a governing interest, and which would have to be treated like this favors actual sales of goods, rather than speculation on Wall Street, or elsewhere, and also helps the smaller town because banks in larger centers are apt to have a much larger proportion of bonds and less commercial paper than the banks in smaller communities."

"It would decentralize control of credit and give to each section of the country its just proportion of credit facilities. Nothing else would be allowed, since publicly would prevent it. To my mind, it certainly assists the country banks more than it does the metropolitan banks. In that way it builds up the country town and by preserving the independence of the farmers and small merchants helps to secure the permanence of the republic."

Times are none too good at present for the average business man and many a person is out of a job because of curtailment in his line. Under such circumstances it does seem as though the voters, and through them congress, could be brought to understand that nothing is so fundamentally necessary to produce certain and unbroken prosperity as a good banking system. It is the foundation of all credits and all business and certainly should not be pushed aside and delayed for other issues which though very urgent seem to many less important. It should be acted upon at the next session of congress."

As I have said in the beginning, to the business public this subject is of greater importance than any other now before the American people for consideration. I believe our interest should be aroused in it, not only on account of the benefits to be derived from it ourselves, but especially on account of the great good that will be done to the wage earning element in our country."

In times of panic most solvent merchants, bankers or farmers go on with very little change in their mode of living, excepting, perhaps, the cutting off of a few luxuries, but the burden falls heavily on the working classes, who are thrown out of employment, through no fault of their own, and find they cannot obtain the necessities of life. Members of the family become ill, they get into debt, and soon find themselves in difficulties and trouble from which it takes them years to emerge."

Personally, I believe a plan of this kind will do many times the real good that the charitable organizations in the country can do towards relieving much of the distress occasioned by such panics. The work of charitable organizations simply alleviates to a small degree the effect of the trouble; a sound banking system would, to a large degree, remove one of the main causes."

The American people, however, will always respond to a moral issue, or one which thoroughly arouses the spirit of working for the general good instead of for selfish interest. All their history shows it. When they fully understand this question and all the great benefits that must come to all classes, and especially to the wage-earners, by the adoption of a sound banking system, they cannot fail to repeat history, to show their public spirit and do their part in this important work."

I believe it to be a work of highest patriotism and as such will call forth the thought, energy and time of the best people of the land."

NOTICE

Petition to Improve a Highway.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Auditor of Putnam County, Indiana, that there has been filed in his office a petition by W. A. Kreigh, et al., for the improvement of a certain public highway in Greencastle Township, said county and that said petition is set for hearing before the Board of County Commissioners of said county, on Monday, the 6th day of November, 1911, the same being the first day of the November Term, 1911, of said board.

Which said petition is in the following words and figures, to-wit: State of Indiana, Putnam County, SS:—

To the Honorable Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, Indiana: We, the undersigned freeholders and voters of Greencastle Township, Putnam County, Indiana, respectfully petition your Honorable Board and ask that the highway hereinafter described, in said Township, be improved as hereinafter recommended.
